juice of 1 liemon
1 handful fresh basil roughly chopped
1/2 cup crumbied feta
losiber sall* pepper
pinch of crushed red pepper flakes toasted almonds sliced or chopped
sliced avocado for serving (optional)

Process

Heat a large skillet over medium heat. Once hot add the bacon or pancetta (if using). Let the bacon get nice and crispy, about 2.3 minutes. Remove the bacon from the skillet and drain any grease. Return the skillet to medium heat and add the clive oil. Add the minced garlic and sauté for about 1 minute to soften. Add the spiralized sweet potato noodles to the skillet and drain any grease. Best together the eggs, miso and a large pinch of pepper in a glass measuring cup. Remove the needles from the heat and pour the egg misture into the needles, tossing quickly (to ensure the eggs do not szamble) until the eggs thicken and create a sauce. Add the lemon juice, basil and crumbled fets and genty toss to combine with the needles.

Season the noodles with plenty of freshly ground black pepper, salt to taste and add a pinch of crushed red pepper flakes. Garnish with toasted almonds, fresh basil and sliced avocado. EATI

RECIPE NOTES

If you do not own a spiralizer, you can simply dice the sweet potatoes into cubes. Just make sure to really toss them well when combining them with the eggs.

If you do not have miso paste, just season the noodles with a little more salt to your taste.
